

The Reality We All Can't Escape

Chapter 1 by Monorilakkuma

Not everyone...likes everyone. You probably heard this everywhere already, right? You're probably sick of hearing it too, right? The sentence sounds so dramatic you're probably thinking and one quoted " Ugh, I hate drama queens! They're literally so dramatic! ".

Well, sorry but to be truthful with you, not everyone can keep their feelings from being hidden. It's not funny to play around with someone's feeling. It's just probably why they all say that not everyone or every single human has the same mind. If you don't like them then so be it, no need to go as far as humiliating them or giving them trouble on purpose to see them feel so small.

Enough said I used to think humankind (I know I'm a human too, okay? But this is from my perspective) is just weirder than animals and plants. Humans can neglect and ignore whoever they hate easier to be said despise is the exact word. You are given looks, wealth, and status based on who you are.

Does this really mean that you are special? NO! You are no different that any other human that lives on Earth! You shouldn't categorize yourself as a special being made by God. You're still a human. like all the others you are also made out of flesh, bones, and blood. What are you without those? Nothing! Nothing of those compounds makes you anymore different than other people!

fit! Do you not feel saddened by this at all?

How will grandparents and parents explain to their grandchildren and children that the world has gone and turned itself into a no longer a living place but Hell on Earth? What will you say when they ask you " Why am I labeled, Mommy ?", Why do they call me that, Daddy?".

To take this subject further, you now call each other as freaks, weirdoes, loser, b*tch or bastard and more. Don't you feel disgusted at all?

To be honest, I don't understand why people call each other using animals as an insult on them?

Do wealth and status actually get you anywhere near the meaning of kindness? Or mercy? Do we even have the meaning of that word carved in our mind (dictionary doesn't count)? I think we've finally lost all of humanity in our society!

Do you have a word for this?
